Some of the image encodings we use for publishing are not visible in pr-tests prior to release. Image encodings was not visible or consistent in all browsers, so therefore we had to change mythic of style. Before image processing begins we must visualize before releasing updates or they will not be used. Modifying, recreate designs and so on may be done. This may cause a delay for some client(s) promotional material to be released on time. Image file can be used based on client(s) choice, image files must be sent to us upon approval, this mythic has been long tested and recently tested again, works very well and can be time consuming, but well worth it.

If you are one of our client(s), we have been constantly changing the banner(s) on a weekly basis, the image can be displayed in text format.

The reconstruction of Meta tags, networks, and image-encoded text content has always been a daily task.

Promotional Material

TLG promotional materials will be used throughout the site

And may redirect to a client(s) promotional material

It may change from time to time due to operating conditions.

If status is offline it will be replaced with another operable one.

In other words banners will not change, promotional material may lead to a different website, content and different venue.

At present, we are making more changes that describe our work details and display methods. To find out more information call office, visit us on our website or just stop by office during operational hours for more in depth inquiry.
